FRIDAY, APRIL 8, 1910.

It is now stated that the Legislators at Columbus have decided not to spend any more money on the canals of Ohio.

Russia is to spend $375,000,000 to rebuild her navy. The Czar originated the disarmament idea, but since the Japs disarmed him by crushing his navy, he now feels as though the idea was a joke.

The German cruiser Sperber, was ordered to leave Liberian waters within 36 hours or take the "consequences," and the cruiser preferred to leave. Wow! wow! What will the Kaiser say to that?

Atlee Pomerene of Canton, is said to have declined to run for Lieut. Governor on the Democratic ticket, but will be a candidate for U. S. Senator to succeed Senator Dick in case the Legislature is Democratic.

The insurgents of the country, as their enemies call them, the "progressives," as they call themselves, are anxious for a return of President Roosevelt. They anticipate in him a champion. They have in black and white in speech and message his utterances that have been their rallying cry.

There has been some agitation during the week in favor of an international celebration in Washington of the completion of the Isthmian Canal, an event which is anticipated five years hence. It seems to be agreed or rather felt in Congress that Washington is the only proper place for such an exposition and celebration. Washington is at present much better prepared for such an event than it was twenty years ago when there was an endeavor to hold an international exposition here but which was "grabbed" by Chicago. The city has grown and expanded wonderfully in the last twenty years. Its entertaining or lodging capacity is twice as great now as it was then. Not that it has twice as many houses or hotels, although it has perhaps twice as many of the latter, but since that time the city has been connected with Baltimore by additional electric lines, a railway station, the largest and best in the United States has been built, and electric and trolley lines have connected the main city with surrounding villages which practically make Baltimore, Alexandria, Rockville, Hyattsville, Chevy Chase and other important towns and communities one with Washington.

The best and most reassuring event of the week is that an amicable agreement has been arranged between the United States and Canada. The maximum and minimum principle of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law threatened to interfere with the mutually profitable commercial interchange which has long existed between this country and its good northern neighbor. For five months at least the President and the Secretary of State have been engaged in an effort to avoid a rupture in this long-standing trade interchange and the President himself may be in great part credited with the desirable solution which has been attained. The new tariff treaty with Canada is one in which important concessions have been made by both governments with profit to both parties to the convention; but most important of all, a basis has been laid for a renewal of negotiations looking to further improved trade relations on the border "on more liberal lines which should obtain between countries so closely related geographically and racially, as indicated by the President in his recent public utterances." These were the words from Secretary Knox, and the Canadian Minister replied that his country heartily reciprocated the spirit in which it was made and "would gladly avail itself of the invitation."

MAN'S DEADLY WORK

LONG LIST OF LIVING CREATURES WIPED OUT.

Greed in Many Cases and in Others Simply the Desire to Kill Has Been Responsible for the Slaughter.

Sir Ray Lankester writes of the enormous number of living creatures which man has destroyed since he first appeared on earth: "Even in prehistoric times it is probable that man by hunting the mammoth—the great hairy elephant—assisted in its extinction, if he did not actually bring it about. At a remote prehistoric period the horses of various kinds which abounded in North and South America rapidly and suddenly became extinct. It has been suggested, with some show of probability, that a previously unknown epidemic disease due to a parasitic organism—such as those which we now see ravaging the herds of South Africa—found its way to the American continent. And it is quite possible that this was brought from the other hemisphere by the first men who crossed the Pacific and populated North America.

"To come to matters of certainty and not of speculation, we know that man by clearing the land, as well as by actively hunting and killing it, made an end of the great wild ox of Europe, the aurochs or urus of Caesar, the last of which was killed near Warsaw in 1627. He similarly destroyed the bison, first in Europe and then (in our own days) in North America. A few hundred, carefully guarded, are all that remain in the two continents. He has very nearly made an end of the elk in Europe, and will soon do so completely in America. The wolf and the beaver were destroyed in these British islands about 400 years ago. They are rapidly disappearing from France, and will soon be exterminated in Scandinavia and Russia and in Canada.

"At a remote prehistoric period the bear was exterminated by man in Britain and the lion driven from the whole of Europe, except Macedonia, where it still flourished in the days of the ancient Greeks. It was common in Asia Minor a few centuries ago. The giraffe and the elephant have departed from South Africa before the encroachments of civilized man. The day is not distant when they will cease to exist in the wild state in any part of Africa. And with them are vanishing many splendid antelope.

"Even our 'nearest and dearest' relatives in the animal world, the gorilla, the chimpanzee and the orang, are doomed. Now that man has learned to defy malaria and other fevers, the tropical forest will be occupied by the greedy civilized horde of humanity, and there will be no room for the most interesting and wonderful of all animals, the man-like apes, unless (as we may hope in their case, at any rate) such living monuments of human history are made sacred and treated with greater care than are our ancient monuments in stone."

WANTED—Man to spray fruit trees Enquire at Journal Office.

Chicago Aldermen are making a fight on the wearing of long hat pins, and the women are protesting vigorously and make much fun of the alderman, but the city fathers seem determined in their efforts to suppress the nuisance. Ohio people made a big kick and ridiculed the legislature for passage of the hat removal law, but the law has since proven a blessing.

Swindle with Trees.

"Up in Putnam county," said Rev. Charles A. Ashmead, assistant rector of St. Andrew's Memorial church, Yonkers, N. Y., "I found a man who had been victimized through a tree swindle."

"That's rather new," observed a bystander.

"I can't say, but it was certainly new to him. Well, it seems that he bought a piece of land largely because of the young and beautiful shade trees—elms and maples—with which it was adorned."

"Intended to build at home there, probably."

"That was his plan, but soon after he had paid the money and the land operator had disappeared the buyer noticed that all the trees were dying. Investigation revealed the fact that the presumably thrifty saplings had no roots. They had been cut down in a forest, their trunks pointed with an ax and merely stuck upright in the ground. Of course they died, and also of course the buyer was swindled."

Following Instructions.

Wealthy Guest—Have you a small room I may rent?

Hotel Clerk (sizing him up)—Why don't you take the three rooms up on the second floor, instead?

Wealthy Guest—Can't do that. My doctor told me to avoid suites.

Boiled down, Mr. Wu's idea seems to be that a man ought to have no great difficulty living to be 200 years of age, provided he can manage to get beyond the 199th milestone.

Dr. Fletcher says chew every particle of food taken 32 times. At that rate, would it be possible to finish dinner by supper time?

An income tax ought to encourage investments in unimproved real estate.

It is suggested that the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" on the Fourth of July by every man, woman and child in the United States would be much more in keeping with the spirit of the day than are noisy demonstrations.

PITTSBURGH PERFECT FENCE

This shows one of the 73 styles of the only electrically welded wire fence in the world. The "Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence—Stock, Poultry and Garden.

The only fence that does away entirely with wraps, twists, ties or clamps, all of which crack the galvanizing and thereby cause rust, add an unsightly appearance and bungle some construction. The weld is the whole secret of this simplest, strongest fence construction known. At every point of contact the wires are electrically welded, making one solid piece of steel throughout. The weld is as strong and lasts as long as the wire. The "Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence is certainly the ideal fence for all purposes. Tight enough for smallest young fowl, strong enough for largest stock. Offers every protection as a safeguard or enclosure.

For every one of the innumerable fence uses the "Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence offers 73 different styles for selection. It is made in a variety of wire and mesh sizes and in different heights.
